Primož Trubar (1508–1586) je protestantski reformator, utemeljitelj slovenskega knjižnega jezika, ki je usposobil materinščino za knjižno rabo. Med Slovenci je bil prvi založnik in avtor prve slovenske tiskane knjige. Leta 1550 sta izšli prvi njegovi in slovenski knjigi Katekizem in Abecednik, natisnjeni v gotski pisavi, leta 1555 pa še v latinici. S svojimi deli je Slovence vključil v evropski kulturni prostor.

Primož Trubar (1508 – 1586) was a Protestant reformer and the founder of the Slovene written language, credited with adapting the mother tongue for literary use. He was the first Slovenian publisher and author of the first printed Slovenian book. In 1550, the first of Trubar's (and the first Slovenian books), Catechism and Primer, were published in a Gothic typeface and later in a Latin typeface (1555). Through his work, Trubar incorporated Slovenes in European culture.
